SEVEN PERSONS HURT IN AUTO COLLISION ON CINCINNATI PIKE

Brother And Sister In Hospital And Others
Severely Hurt

Seven persons were recovering Wednesday, two at McClellan Hospital and five at their homes, from injuries sustained in an automobile collision on the Cincinnati Pike, four miles south of the city, Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Solomon Lucas, 20, son of David Lucas, farmer, and his sister, Thelma, 18, living on the Hudson farm near the scene of the accident, were the more seriously hurt. They were kept at the hospital overnight for observation while five others were permitted to return home after receiving medical attention.

Lucas will probably lose the sight of his right eye which was penetrated by a piece of glass. He was also cut about the forehead and a deep gash extends along the right cheek to behind the eye.

His sister, Thelma, who was the only other occupant of their small touring car, was rendered unconscious and is in a serious condition. Physicians think she may have concussion of the brain and possible internal injuries. She was lacerated about the head, received first degree burns on the left thigh and abrasions on the right ankle.

Five of six members of the family of Patrolman J. E. Craig, returning to Xenia after visiting relatives near Spring Valley, were cut and bruised when their touring car was forced into a ditch.

Patrolman Craig was bruised about the forehead. Mrs. Josephine Craig, 55, his mother, was bruised about the body and right temple; Mrs. Craig, 25, his wife, was bruised about the right thigh and knee and suffered a deep gash in her forehead that required ten stitches to close. Joseph Benson, 75, his grandfather, escaped with bruises on the left hip while the third finger of his left hand was cut. Gerald, aged 4, his son, was slightly cut on the head by flying glass. Another son, John, 6, was uninjured.

The Lucas auto was being driven by Solomon Lucas, who had stopped the car on the opposite side of the road from his farm to open the mail box. As he re-entered the car and started across the pike to enter a lane leading to his residence, another car passed by on the left obstructing a view of the approaching Craig car. In the collision that followed Lucas' machine was overturned and the car driven by Patrolman Craig swerved into a ditch. Both machines were damaged.

William Craig, uncle of the officer, living near Spring Valley, whose car innocently caused the crash when it cut off the view of his nephew's machine, witnessed the accident in the mirror of his auto and returning took several of the crash victims to the local hospital.

AKRON JUDGE USES LASH ON WIFE BEATER

AKRON, Feb. 2.—The whipping post has been revived in Ohio—if not officially, at least effectively. Ired by the repeated appearances in police court here of John Caves, 40, alleged wife beater, Municipal Judge E. E. Ziesiger, late yesterday personally administered twenty lashes after passing sentence on the prisoner.

The whipping was conducted in a cell at police headquarters. Judge Ziesiger used an eighteen-inch section of garden hose. "I guess I smacked him at least twenty times across the seat of his breeches with the flexible hose," the judge declared after carrying out his own sentence. "Caves blubbered like a school boy and promised to behave himself in the future. Then I released him."

Judge Ziesiger is a firm advocate of a law providing the lash for wife beaters.

OHIO VILLAGE HIT BY SERIOUS FIRE

MARION, O., Feb. 2.—Fire of undetermined origin, believed to have started in a pool room, destroyed the three principal stores in this town, near here early today and threatened the entire village of 350. The loss is placed at $25,000, less than half of which is covered by insurance.

Among the buildings destroyed, were those occupied by the Schultz General store, Tom Hoffman pool room, and Chapman Auto Supply Company.

Formation of bucket brigades and the timely arrival of Marion firemen with equipment saved the village from destruction.

AIRCRAFT COMMUNICATION BY TELEPHONE PERFECTED

Radio To Play Important Part In Night Flying
And In Fog From Discovery
Experts Say

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Passengers on commercial aircraft eventually will be in direct telephone communication with their offices and homes.

The U. S. Bureau of Standards is completing an exhaustive investigation of an aeronautical radio telephone system which will be established at all official airports, it was announced today.

Dr. J. H. Dellinger, chief of the radio laboratory, said that the radio telephones would operate on a wave band from 540 to 600 meters. The first installations will make possible communication between airports and commercial aircraft, and will be employed chiefly for communication of flying information to the pilots.

Experts explained that it would be but another step to plug in to the commercial telephone switchboards, keeping the passengers in touch with the world regardless of their position.

The wave band adopted for the aeronautical telephones is within range of the ordinary commercial receiving set. Sensitive apparatus in the vicinity of the airport or aircraft may be able to "tap in" on some of the conversation.

The bureau of standards soon will announce specifications for receiving and sending radio sets on commercial aircraft. Dellinger said that the work would be advanced sufficiently that initial installations may be made by July.

Further studies have been started as to radio beacons for the airports to keep pilots on their course. The beacons will operate at 1024 meters and being out of range of commercial receiving sets will not be a source of interference. Precautions will be taken to eliminate harmonics in some beacon operation.

A continual study of the application of radio's latest developments to the operation of aircraft will be conducted by the bureau of standards, co-operating with Secretary of Commerce Hoover in his plan to make air travel safe.

Aside from the mechanical perfection of aircraft, radio is expected to prove the greatest factor in creating safe air navigation especially in night flying and in fog, both of which are essential to commercial aeronautics are to be economically successful.

MILLIKEN COLLEGE GIRL TAKES POISON AFTER EXAM FAILURE

Suicide Wave Claims
Nine Victims Since
First Of Year

DECATUR, Ill., Feb. 2.—Heart-broken students today paid final tribute to Bernice Richardson, pretty Milliken College co-ed who killed herself in the girls' dormitory yesterday after she had been notified of her failure to pass mid-term examinations.

Special significance is attached to the girl's death in view of the current "suicide wave" sweeping over universities of the United States. Miss Richardson was the second co-ed and the ninth student victim of self-destruction since the first of the year.

Miss Richardson was the daughter of Dr. E. E. Richardson, a prominent physician of Mattoon, Ill. Her mother was a social leader of the central Illinois town. The girl went to Milliken College with excellent prospects and at once became a favorite with her classmates.

But she soon began to worry over her studies. Last week mid-term examinations were held. She told her roommate, Miss Marion Schabitz, she was afraid she had "flunked." Monday evening the names of successful students were posted in the dormitory. Miss Richardson's was not among them.

All of Monday night, according to Miss Schabitz, Bernice lay on her bed and sobbed. During a brief interval the girl effected an indifferent attitude and began to joke about her plight. Then she queried Miss Schabitz about the relative potency of various poisons.

Yesterday noon Miss Richardson was summoned to the principal's office. She knew what it meant. Instead of answering the summons she went to her room and swallowed poison.

"Suicide while despondent," read the coroner's report.

Mark Penney, president of Milliken University, was dumbfounded when he learned that the "suicide epidemic" had struck in his own institution. He said he had just been reading about the suicide of Miss Claudia Lanun at State Teachers' College at Springfield, Mo., and thought how terrible it would be if such a thing occurred at his school. President Penney said:

"The case is not essentially different from other cases of student suicide which have recently come to the attention of the public. A crisis appears which distorts the vision and destroys the ability to see the relation of the present circumstance to the future. With a larger experience in life the student would see such a failure as a mere incident."

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—With the death of Bernice Richardson, 20-year-old Milliken College co-ed, enrollment in the "suicide class of '27" today stood at nine.

That number of students—seven boys and two girls—have taken their own lives in American universities in the past thirty days, an appalling average of one every seven-and-a-half hours, or approximately one every three days.

What is back of this alarming wave of self destruction?

For the first time, it was learned today, educators, ministers and alienists, thoroughly aroused, have joined forces in a concerted effort to fathom causes underlying this weird epidemic and to adopt measures to stamp it out.

NEWPORT, Ky., Feb. 2.—County officers today were holding three men for questioning in connection with the mysterious murder last night of Louis C. Riley, 37, Cincinnati salesman.

Riley's body, riddled with bullets, was found along the Licking Road, six miles south of here, last night.

Cincinnati police have been asked to check on the report that three men yesterday asked Riley to demonstrate an automobile to them, and that he kept the appointment last night.

The theory that robbery was a possible motive for the crime was discarded today when it was learned that the murdered man had but a small amount of money with him.

Viscount Gladstone testified that his father had associated himself with societies for the reclamation of fallen women.

Because of his interest in this work, said the Viscount, the former premier frequently spoke with women of the streets in an effort to reform them, and he spent large sums of money in this sort of work.

Viscount Gladstone said that he had forced the present case to trial solely to "do justice to my father's memory."

WEST FORT LEE, N. J., Feb. 2.—Three men were seriously burned in a mysterious explosion today which wrecked the two-story film reduction plant of the Cello Film Co. here, showing the studio and laboratory of the Universal Pictures Corporation with burning debris. Motion picture film valued at $2,000,000 was imperiled by the explosion.

"Daddy" And "Peaches" Resting To Await Result Of Court Decision

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—"Daddy" and "Peaches" today retired to their respective apartments to rest and recover, if possible, from the charges and counter-charges which they hurled at each other during their trial for separation in White Plains.

The honking goose and the rubber eggs have had their day in court, and now the attorneys for Edward West Browning and his young wife, the former Frances Heenan, are engaged in preparing briefs which they will submit to Justice Seeger within two weeks.

The judge will then study these documents, the testimony given during the trial, which was the most popular entertainment staged in Westchester County in years, and eventually, in perhaps a month he will render his decision.

Not until then will "Daddy" know how large a slice of his millions will go to the youthful "Peaches," if any; nor will she know whether she and "Ma" Heenan can continue to live in comfort or whether they must go back to their former roles of shop girl and nurse, respectively.

The only tangible result of the performance so far is considerable wear and tear suffered by the White Plains court house at the hands of the mob which witnessed the trial, and a strong movement to have such litigation held in private in the future.

Justice Seeger himself announced that if ever again such a case comes before him he will bar the public from the court, and also the press.

"I believe that before another year is passed a statute will stand on the books making secrecy in such a case mandatory," he said.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 2.—A "firebug" today was believed responsible for the fires which destroyed the convalescent ward of the University General Hospital and damaged the Jennings House near by last night. The loss is $150,000.

Between fifty and sixty patients, many of them on wheel coats which were slid to safety on chutes, were removed from the flaming structure just before the roof collapsed. No one was injured.

In the midst of the fight against the hospital fire, firemen were compelled to divert their attention to the Jennings House across the street, which had been filled with patients removed from the burning ward.

Billows of smoke were seen pouring out of the basement of the Jennings House. This fire was soon put under control.

The origin of both fires is shrouded in mystery. University and local officials were planning an investigation.

Harley Haynes, director of the hospital, today advanced the theory that these and other recent blazes at various university hospitals may have been the work of a "fire bug."

There were fires at the Natural Science building two weeks ago and at the Internes House five weeks ago. There have been several other fires with no great damage in recent years in the building housing the hospital convalescent ward.

UNCOVER NEW CLUE
IN MYSTERY DEATH

CAPE MAY, N. J., Feb. 2.—A new clue was uncovered today which investigators believe may lead to a solution of the mysterious death of Miss Mary E. Clark, wealthy Pittsburgh spinster, whose frozen body was found on the beach here on January 15.

Wardell Higbee, county detective who has been working quietly on the case ever since a coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by strangulation, announced today that he had learned Miss Clark had arranged to meet a certain man here. The man, whose name is withheld, is being sought in several cities, and his home is being watched.

Higbee predicted that the suspect would be arrested soon, and subjected to a rigid questioning. The coroner's jury decided that the wealthy woman was killed by being held face downward in the sand of the beach.

SENATOR MARSHALL
INTRODUCES BILL

Extension of the fee system to special constables, marshals and deputy marshals is provided in a bill introduced in the state senate Tuesday by Senator L. T. Marshall, Greene County.

The measure is counter to several bills previously introduced seeking abolishment of the fee system in courts of justices of the peace and village mayors.

Justices and mayors would not be permitted to retain more than $300 a month; constables and marshals not more than $200; and special constables not more than $150.

URGENT STATE FUND
FOR SANITARIUM

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 2.—The state legislature today had before it an urgent recommendation by the Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital Superintendents' Association for appropriation of funds for a children's building at State Sanatorium at Mt. Vernon.

Dr. F. C. Anderson, of State Sanatorium, was elected president; Dr. Warren C. Breidenbach, Dayton, vice president and Dr. J. A. Frank, Columbus, secretary.

FAVORABLE ACTION ON O. S. AND S. O HOME PROBE URGED

More Vigorous Law Enforcement Urged By Governor

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 2.—In a message delivered to the solons of the State House, Wednesday, Governor Donahue declared, "a crying need in society's battle against crime is a more vigorous enforcement of the laws against carrying concealed weapons."

Asserting that there should be "a way to gauge the penalty to fit the crime," he favored legislation defining degrees of robbery and fixing varying penalties to fit the grades. The governor endorsed the suggestion that "repeaters," guilty of major robberies, including larceny, and committing robberies with weapons, be given life sentences.

The governor endorsed abolition of road assessments against abutting property owners, except in cases where property owners petition for a road which, otherwise, could not be financed.

The solons were urged by the governor to accord friendly consideration to recommendations made by the governor's special committee of Spanish war and World war veterans who recently made a survey of conditions and needs at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, Sandusky, and of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan's Home, Xenia.

Donahue stated that about $30,000,000 of the approximately $65,000,000 appropriated by the legislature for departments under his control has not yet been spent. He declared, however, that such balances as will be available at the end of the present fiscal year—June 30, next—will not aid in relieving the state's financial distress, nor help avert the threatened huge deficit in the state treasury.

Assessing that "the first duty of government is to help those least able to help themselves," the governor announced that about $18,000,000 of the approximately $30,000,000 was set aside for the department of public welfare and that none of the expenditures for which the money was appropriated would be curtailed at his direction.

"Scientific" reclassification of the laws of the Buckeye state by a commission of competent attorneys was strongly urged by Governor Donahue. He called attention to the fact that there has been no reclassification of these statutes since 1910. Since that time, he pointed out, voluminous legislation followed adoption of the Ohio constitutional amendments in 1912, each succeeding legislature grinding out its grist of hundreds of laws on all manner of subjects.

"Our present code is encumbered with many obsolete and archaic laws," he declared. "There are numerous conflicting statutes which should be reconciled and other complicated ones simplified."

Touching on the subject of election law revision, the governor endorsed permanent registration of voters, easier recount of ballots, urged that voters be permitted to vote at primaries without disclosing their party affiliations, and recommended that the right of women voters to serve on political party committees be given statutory recognition.

Another recommendation by the governor was that the inter-county system of roads in Ohio be increased from 11,000 to 12,000 miles and that the limit on construction cost be raised from $3,000 per mile to $5,000.

MEXICAN REBELLION
BELIEVED ENDED

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 2.—The Mexican government today considers the various rebellions against the Calles administration as completely smothered.

As a result the war general amnesty extending to February 10, during which those in rebellion against the government are asked to come in and surrender. All rebels who have not surrendered before the expiration of the amnesty period will be declared outlaws and will be executed upon capture, according to Assistant Secretary of War Plana.

Two rebels were reported executed at Parras, Coahuila state, by federal troops.

AIMEE SHUNS PROBE

DAYTON, O., Feb. 2.—Capacity crowds filled Memorial Hall at Aimee Semple McPherson's first two meetings, when she preached "Old-Time Gospel," and made no reference to the recent kidnapping case in which she figured so prominently in California. Her three-day meeting here will end Thursday night.

Because he was unable to read the fourteenth and fifteenth verses of the seventh Psalm, Onofrio Ienna, sixteen, of Newark, N. J., was ordered deported as an alien. His father is a citizen, living in Los Angeles.

WIFE REPORTS DEATH OFFICERS FIND BODY

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 2.—After Mrs. Anna Lista, 36, accompanied by daughter, Elizabeth, 13, walked into a police station here today and reported that her husband had been killed, officers went to her home and found Anthony Lista's body, the head smashed to pulp. Two bloody hatchets were found nearby.

Mrs. Lista admitted, police said, that she had engaged in a violent quarrel with her husband during the night and that he had threatened her life. He was slain while asleep in bed.

The woman and her daughter were held for investigation.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 2.—Alternately wielding an axe and a hatchet, Mrs. Anna Lista, 36, and her daughter, Elizabeth, 13, early today bashed in the head of Anthony Lista, husband and father, as he lay sleeping in bed here, according to the woman's alleged statement made to Police Sergeant John Koster.

"I struck him first with the axe and then Elizabeth hit him with the hatchet," Mrs. Lista admitted, according to Koster.

"We were afraid of our lives; he had threatened to kill us," she declared.

The wife declared to officers that she and her three children had been beaten severely by Lista before he retired last night. She awakened during the night with a thirst and went for a drink of water. On the way she stumbled against an axe. This, she is alleged to have said, crystallized her intention of attacking her husband.

"I'm sorry the way I did it but my heart is lighter," her statement declared, according to Koster. "Now I feel that my children are safer."

The amount claimed by police to be involved in the alleged forgery was $20,000.

BACH PAPER ON MUSIC CLUB PROGRAM

A splendid paper on the Bach Choir was read by Mrs. James Wilson III when she led the program of the Xenia Woman's Music Club. The paper was written by Miss Juanita Rankin, E. Main St., Monday afternoon.

This famous choir has been in existence since 1900 and, with the exception of five years during which the leader was absent, it has presented a Bach festival each Spring. The remarkable success which this organization has attained is undoubtedly due to the devotion of the leader, Dr. Fritz Wille, whose interest in the enterprise as well as thorough acquaintance with the works of the great German composer has this quiet, unassuming little man, who has made them his life study, Mrs. Wilson said.

"He insists that, not only the simpler works of this great master be given but also the most difficult ones, including the great B minor Mass, so that these annual festivals are full of interest for the serious student of music," she continued. Mrs. Wilson supplemented her paper by reading a letter from a friend who has attended several of these festivals.

The program of the afternoon was composed of selections from the German composers and was as follows:

- Fantasy and Fugue in G Minor. Bach
Arranged by Liszt.
Miss Rankin.
Violets, come rejoice with me. Franz Ries
Dedication. Franz
The Woodlands fair are gleaming. Von Pulitz
Hark, hark the lark. Schubert
Hedge Roses. Reichert
In the Time of Roses.
Mrs. Richard Bennington
Ich Grolle Nicht. Schumann
Aus Meinen Grossen.
Schmetzen-Franz
Die Weigenlied. Brahms
Mrs. Wilson
Serenade. Strauss
Ave Maria. Schubert
Who is Sylvia?
Miss Zella Soward
The Mouse Trap. Hugo Wolf
To Be Sung on the Water.
Shubert
Miss Florence Steele
Walderemacht. Max Reger
Frühlingsschmelz. Schumann
Das Kraut Vergessenheit.
Eugen Hildach
Mrs. A. C. Swinnerton
The Trout. Schubert
Traumerei. Schumann
Mrs. Nelson Ankeney
Come, child Beside Me. Bleichman
Elsa's Song to the Breezes. Wagner
(from Lohengrin)
Impatience. Shubert
Mrs. John Watkins
Viennese Carnival Scene. Shumann
Miss Rankin.

PLAYS GIVEN FOR CLUB AND GUESTS

Mrs. D. D. Jones and Mrs. Charles W. Adair shared honors with the performers, for their direction of the two clever playlets, presented for the entertainment of the Junior Woman's Club and guests at the Parish House, Tuesday evening. The program was a departure from the regular afternoon meeting of the club and was thoroughly appreciated.

The auditorium was filled with club members and guests for the presentation of the two-one-act plays. Characters who took part were: Miss Bess Fulton, Mrs. Charles Adair, Mrs. D. D. Jones, Mrs. Steele Pogue, Mrs. E. M. Woodward, Mr. William Horner, Mr. John Ballantyne.

Mrs. Arthur V. Perrill gave two vocal numbers, accompanied by Miss Margaret Steele.

Home, Sweet Home!

After a sensational debut in her native Italy, Anna Fiora is passing up contracts to appear in Australia, Holland and Germany, in order to visit her husband, Achille Fioramonti, music teacher in Southwest College, Winfield, Kan. He trained her soprano voice, sent her to Italy to seek success. She is returning with European laurels and assurances of prima donna roles in Trieste, Rome and Padova.

Mr. and Mrs. Sewell Nevitt, W. Second St., entertained with two tables of "500" Tuesday evening. High score winners were Miss Vera Jones and Mr. Perry Swindler. A refreshment course was served at a late hour. Appointments were pink and white.

The Hawkins Community Club will meet Friday evening, Feb. 4, at 7:30 sharp. Members are asked to bring a cake and bananas. A good program has been prepared and the public is invited.

Xenia W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. H. W. Collett, 532 S. Detroit St., Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. A full attendance is urged.

Mrs. George Grottendick entertained members of her card club at her home on E. Market St., Tuesday afternoon. Three tables of five hundred were in play. Mrs. Elmer Fisher and Mrs. Grottendick were high score holders. A two-course luncheon was served after cards.

Mrs. Jeannette Anderson left Tuesday for Richmond, Ind., to visit her daughter, Mrs. D. L. Ferguson for a few days. Mrs. Ferguson has been ill but is recovering.

Miss Helen Sayre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Sayre, N. King St., who will enter the University of Cincinnati, with the opening of the second semester, was honored by Mrs. Mack J. West, (Laura Downs) who entertained with two tables of cards at her home on E. Church St., Tuesday evening.

Improvement is being noted in the condition of Mrs. Joseph Tate, who sustained a broken thigh in a recent fall. Her daughter, Mrs. Dobbins, is in Xenia visiting her.

Miss Florence White, Clifton, is visiting Miss Ella Knott, Pitchin.

Mr. C. S. Gilbert, South Charleston, was a business visitor in Xenia Wednesday.

Townpeople of Clifton are planning a community miscueous "shower" Thursday afternoon at the K of P. Hall in the village for the benefit of Mrs. Lottie Reed, whose home was destroyed by fire a week ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Andrews, Jamestown, Pa., entertained a company of relatives Saturday for 12 o'clock dinner. One, long table seating fifteen guests was tastefully decorated with red and white sweet peas and other suggestions of the Valentine season. A number of guests were seated at smaller tables. An elaborate three-course dinner was served.

WHAT to WEAR and HOW to WEAR IT

By LUCY CLAIRE

Favorite Fashion Adviser of the Smart Set

PAIM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 2.—The shingled head seems to have been present long enough for every one to try it and for a good many of us to regret it. The reaction is at high tide right now.

Last year it just seemed that one couldn't be smart without short hair for all the hats and frocks seemed to be created for this very thing. I agree that the closely shingled head more nearly approaches perfection on certain types of people than any mode I have known, but that doesn't prevent it from being an absolute failure on many others.

A huge twist of hair—the sort that was cultivated a decade ago—has no place in our mode today so you must not feel that letting your hair grow out will be an endless ordeal. Coiffures are close and soft, conforming as nearly as possible to the natural contours of the head.

The ideal short hair I spoke of is illustrated above (1). Notice the perfect contour of the head, the sharply defined facial features, and the graceful curving neckline. Here there is no freedom of arrangement to soften the defects, every line accentuates the realties.

Now notice another head (3)—notice the soft dips pulled forward on the forehead and then drawn gracefully back over the ears and formed in a soft roll at the nape of the neck. Its effect is surely as smart as a shingle without the harsh severity of line.

The other type (2) you will instantly recognize as blonde and it brings to life all of the charm that we associate with blonde beauty. Notice the soft waves arranged with a certain careless fluffiness and the loose knot drawn toward the back of the head. Waves should be as loose and natural appearing as possible.

The best advice I can give you is to know your type and then adhere to it. If you are convinced that closely cropped hair becomes you, then by all means cling to it. But if you find that bobbing your hair is a mistake, then remedy the situation by encouraging its growth for long hair is coming back into its own.

I am going from head to feet and tomorrow I will tell you about the shoes which are altogether too fascinating and important to pass by.

MILL EMPLOYE HURT IN MACHINE AT WORK

E. B. May, employee of the Hooven and Allison Co., may lose the use of his right hand as the result of an injury sustained Saturday morning while at work in the mill on the "picker," a machine used in the process of rope-making.

One of the strands of rope curled around his hand drawing it into the machine where it was badly crushed. May was cleaning the machine at the time.

Dr. C. G. McPherson treated the injury but he is doubtful whether May will ever again have the use of his fingers.

May's home is in Portsmouth, O., but for the past six months he has been living at 629 W. Main St.

BOY WRITES BACKWARD

BY USING A MIRROR, YOU CAN SEE WHAT HAROLD DAVIS WROTE ON THE BLACKBOARD.

Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright, 1927

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 2.—A strange twist in the machinery of Harold Davis' mind makes him write backward. A mirror is needed to read what he writes.

The boy has what is termed "a looking glass mind," and he has no difficulty in reading what he writes backward with either pencil or crayon. Moreover, he writes with his left hand, from right to left.

Harold's peculiarity was first noticed when he entered school at the age of six years. When he and his classmates were taught to write, his fellow pupils wrote with their right hand in the approved fashion, but Harold wrote backward, with his left hand, thinking all the while that he was performing correctly.

Repeatedly his teachers and parents instructed him to use his right hand, and to write from left to right on the paper. With some difficulty he learned to do this, but for months his facility at writing backwards was much greater than at writing in the customary fashion. While he has suffered no handicap from the inclination, it having been checked in time, he is still envied by his playmates for his unique ability.

TEN FIREMEN HURT IN NEW YORK BLAZE

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Ten firemen, including Fire Chief Kenlon, miraculously escaped death today when the top floor collapsed at a blaze which did $1,000,000 damage to a building on Broadway opposite the Hotel Ansonia. The place was occupied by Milgrim, exclusive women's clothing store, and thousands of dollars worth of valuable costumes were destroyed. The firemen were dropped from the fourth to the third floor and buried beneath tons of debris. They escaped only because a lean-

Women, Why Suffer Needlessly?

Mrs. Wm. Taylor

"During my early married life I was very delicate," said Mrs. Wm. Taylor, of 209 Crystal Ave., Findlay, Ohio, "did not have a bit of health, was very weak and sickly. Finally, during motherhood, I was so miserable I could not do anything. I doctored but got no relief. My doctor told me he could do nothing more for me and advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it not only strengthened me but my child was a fine, healthy, strong baby—weighing ten pounds. The 'Favorite Prescription' is the most wonderful help in motherhood of any medicine a woman can take. I always recommend it."

Many doctors advise the use of "Favorite Prescription" because they know in almost every case it shows results. Druggists sell it in both fluid and tablets. —Adv.

BIBLE THOUGHT

RICHES HAVE WINGS—Labour not to be rich; cease from thine own wisdom. Four riches certainly make themselves wings; they fly away. Proverbs 23: 4-5.

LOST CIVILIZATIONS

America is young, very young, but in turn she will grow old. Other nations have had their blossoming, have passed. This day, men dig in the ruins of Assyria, Egypt, Phoenicia, Greece, Rome, Persia, Mexico, Peru, find pottery, marked stones, images of forgotten pagan gods, we know not what else.

So much for lost civilizations. Alexander, crossing into Asia, 334 B. C., found strange tribes, men who were half-centaurs, half-mortals, living on horseback, worshipping fire.

The pyramids have stood for sixty centuries, monuments to still other lost ages.

Ptolemy Soter, 298 B. C., built on the Nile his library of 400,000 scrolls or parchments called books.

In caves in France scratched by our ancestors 50,000 years ago, are rude images of the sabre-toothed tiger.

Hammurabi's fierce code of the desert, 2500 B. C., served Moses as model for his famous Mosaic law. "An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth."

The Chaldeans made star-records 2000 years before Christ's time. In Babylon were hanging gardens.

In Mexico and Peru lived a race of goldsmiths, stone-cutters, chair-makers, builders of monumental towers, walls.

America is young, very young. But who knows, might it not be that the day is coming when on the banks of the River Rouge (Detroit) will be heaped the rubbish of a former material age, with immense trees growing in the debris. Where once armies of busy Ford workers heaped high the multi-millions for their master, now the peaceful shepherds of another race will wander on the ruins of a strange forgotten civilization.

And as for the Woolworth building, the transcontinental railroad trails, the infinite grandeur of our material civilization—all now ground into fine dust under the movement of still another desolating ice age, will leave no trace behind of the men and women who this day live.

MYSTERY FINALLY EXPLAINED

The masses have never been able to understand high achievement by their fellows. They have always recognized achievement but they have never believed that mortals like themselves could achieve greatness. So as far back as history records, the people have sought in the realms of the supernatural for the cause of greatness in others.

In early times greatness was explained by attributing to heroes a supernatural origin. Every man or woman who excelled in anything was believed by the multitudes to be the son or daughter of some god or goddess and to be acting under the powers and protection of that god-parent.

And then there came a time when the people no longer believed in the existence of Olympus and its populace of gods and goddesses and they had to search also for the cause of the superior traits and abilities of some humans. They solved the problem of defying their mortal heroes. Because Apollo, Jupiter and Vulcan were no more, did not prevent the masses from reasoning that those who are superior to the great body of men must be possessed of some supernatural which make them so.

But the world now lives in a still more enlightened age and no longer accepts the half-god, half-man theory of greatness. Today those who accomplished anything are said to have been born great. This birthright of superiority is commonly known as genius. To excel it is necessary that one be born a genius, is a generally accepted axiom. And when the average person speaks of genius it is in the sense of a certain vague supernatural quality with which the twice blessed are endowed and which is denied to all others.

When the genius myth is discarded in the manner of its predecessors will the world finally confess, although the truth may hurt that those who achieve much in this world are not super-men but super-workers, that the only genius is the genius for hard work?

BOOKS AND CROOKS

More than $500,000,000 is lost annually in this country through purchase of fraudulent securities. Most of this "guilt" edge stock emanates from New York where it's perfectly all right to break the law with a pen but not a pistol.

The wise crooks in the Town of Quaker Percentages realize that the average man is on the lookout to get something for nothing, and he capitalizes on this cupidity.

Much of the $500,000,000 lost annually in the brokerage come-on game is taken from men and women whose hearts aren't one bit purer than the dealers in Golden Fleece.

A boob goes up against a wire-tapping game. The crooks tell him that by intercepting messages across the wires they can give him sure-thing advice. If the boob were an honest boob he'd scorn to take part in such a deal, knowing that he was to profit by questionable methods.

Might Be A Good Place To Cool Off

Little Old New York

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

Exclusive Dispatch, Copyright, 1927

NEW YORK Feb. 2.—Every once in awhile some old bird whose name used to be blazoned on Mazda Lane in those far distant nights, "when a round of town was a round of delights," gets hold of a cub reporter or some woman trying to earn a living in the Capital of the Commonwealth by writing "feature" stories for the Sunday papers, and lets loose a wad of varied and pleasing lies that, while they make good reading, sure do gum the records.

There's Jim Churchill, for example. Jim used to run a comic opera restaurant on the Street of Queer Percentages when Willie Collier, Lillian Russell, De Wolf Hopper, Fritz Williams, Pete Daly, Fay Templeton, Dave Varfield and John Kelly all appeared on the same bill in a Weber and Fields show.

Churchill started life as a cop, became a police captain and finally achieved public attention by cashing in on his knowledge of human nature through the medium of his alleged first mignon bazaar.

Churchill's was the place to which, twenty-five years ago, the Out-of-Town-Man-About-Town could repair with a female chance acquaintance, and over a 3 o'clock in the afternoon bottle of champagne, explain to her just where his wife's understanding of him fell short.

Churchill's was the Finishing School for the Sap at large on Broadway and the Middle Distance for certain ladies, without visible means of support, who had graduated from Gallagher's and hoped to achieve Sherry's.

Jim's stock in trade was a flashy facade. He always reminded me of The Last Chance saloon out Arizona way, with the two-story wooden fake front and the salt-story rear.

When prohibition hit town Jim just naturally curled up and passed out of the picture. His experience lay in one direction only. He was totally incapable of twisting a new situation to meet his exactions.

A couple of Chinks moved into the place Churchill vacated and demonstrated to the old-time "wise guy" that much money could be made in the restaurant business by dispensing mineral water and steaks.

Jim had cleaned up enough, however, to sit back and dabble in real estate, take a jaunt to Europe or Florida when the spirit moved him and occasionally to "submit" to an interview "touching" on an appetizing "to the dear old days of the dead and busted past."

In one of these interviews recently, he said: "If it hadn't been for prohibition I'd still be open today—without a cover charge—and making money. It seems to me that with the enactment of the prohibition amendment, New Yorkers became a Drugh. Police alleged liquor discovered on property adjoining that of Mrs. Hickman was owned by her. She denied this.

Dugan's arrest and subsequent conviction was the outgrowth of a raid on his place of business in which a quantity of liquor was found cached in the attic. Dugan, in his defense, contended the booze was the property of another man, now dead.

Mr. John Dillencourt, left for Minneapolis, where he will have a position with a branch of the Hoover and Allison Co., this city.

drinking and not an eating populace."

Jim knows better that that. He simply guessed wrong seven years ago and is trying to alibi his poor judgment.

Since the advent of prohibition the number of eating places and two-by-four coffee joints has tripled. There's one block on Eighth avenue, near the New Garden, with six hash houses on one side of the street and four on the other. Such a thing would have been possible in the old days.

The night clubs don't break into bloom until after theater hours. The speak-easies are dank, uncomfortable places and men, missing their old gin-mill hangouts, just naturally gravitate to the eating places where they kill their spare time continuing futile arguments that were under way round the mahogany bars of the town when Volstead interrupted.

With Jim Churchill's acquaintance among the Powers that Be and his diamond-shirt-stud temperament, he could have tripled his fortune if he'd had the courage and judgment to hang on and see just what prohibition amounted to.

But he got scared and ran out. He was afraid to take a chance. New York needs today exactly the sort of place Sir James used to run. There were flowers for the ladies, bon-bons for the babies, and if wayfarer chanced in, starying to death, Jim could always manage to rustle a lamb chop for him with a slice or two of French fried potato.

"The hilarity in night clubs of the present seems to me to be fostered," concludes the Worley Brother, "I doubt if many of them make money."

Poor old Jim Churchill—raised out on a bluff!

How to Achieve Beauty

MASSAGE AS AN AID TO BEAUTY
Not all forms of massage, it stands to reason, can be self-applied, and certain variations will lose half their effectiveness if not given by a skilled operator. The massage of the vital organs, however, can be quite satisfactorily undertaken by oneself and will repay the slight effort and concentration needed.

Massage the region of the solar plexus, for instance, that important, but often neglected, center, will aid in digestion and in vitalizing the body, giving a feeling of increased well-being.

And massaging the abdomen in the following manner has proven to be one of the surest and finest cathartic measures.

Take a pitcher and fill it with one quart of water. Put salt in a tablespoon and level it off evenly with a knife and add this to your quart of water. Let the water be warm if you can drink the combination that way.

Then lie down on your back with your knees up for a few minutes. Massage the abdomen all the way round, moving the hands from the lower left up, across to the right, up and around again. Do this for about five minutes, not harshly or violently, but gently, firmly and persistently. Inside of fifteen or twenty minutes one should have a bowel movement. And this will be an most thorough and cleansing one, in accordance with the natural functioning of the body, and far different from the harsh cathartics that wrench the intestines and are ultimately so detrimental to the system.

If women who suffer from obstinate constipation would practice this method of massage they would

HOW VANITY MAKES US SLAVES

I was a guest recently in the home of a wealthy man who lives in a manner approaching grandeur. Nearly every item of furniture in his home, as well as every piece of china is beautiful enough and rare enough to be in a museum. His house is many times as large as he needs and his servants are more numerous than members of his family.

Of ancient and modern times probably lived no better than he does. His fixed charges for the mere routine of living are so high that as head of the household he must hustle to keep the lavish scheme all going. He probably works harder for his servants than they work for him. He told me that he hasn't had time for a vacation in several years.

After dinner, I talked with my hostess and spoke of the beauty of the home.

"Yes," she said, with a wistful expression, "but I wonder, if it's worth while to be so tied down as we are. It's a burdensome job looking after so many servants. We have too much house and too many things."

Then I began to wonder if this woman isn't paying a big price for helping to satisfy the vanity of her husband in expressing himself by means of so palatial an establishment. Maybe he hasn't suspected that he has enslaved his wife in a job more arduous than she likes.

If he himself would probably have more fun if he didn't need to work so hard. But he must stick to his job to earn the income required for his lavish mode of life. I imagine though, that it isn't only the rich, with big homes and many servants, who are thus slaves to their vanity. How many of us really live as simply, comfortably and care-free as we might?

Ask yourself how much you or your family spend each year just for the purpose of putting up a front.

Keeping HEALTHY

by Dr. A. F. Currier

TREATMENT OF DISEASES OF THE BLADDER

The stay of medicinal substances within the body is usually brief, for the eliminating organs try to get rid of them as soon as they are introduced. Some pass out by the digestive tube, practically unchanged and with little effect upon the tissues or functions; others are changed chemically and eliminated by laboratory experiments upon healthy animals, the inference, which however, is, not always correct, being that it will be the same for human beings, at least within reasonable limits.

In this way the dosage and the action of remedies are deduced. If a substance remains very long within the tissues it may do great harm, whereas its first effect may be distinctly beneficial.

Mercury and arsenic are two of the substances which are extremely useful in certain diseases, but which may be retained in the tissues and be injurious.

The bladder is subject to many diseases, being connected on either side by means of a long tube called the ureter, with the kidneys. Every drop of urine which the filtering tubes of the kidneys separate from the blood must go through the ureters and enter the bladder before it can get outside the body.

Suppose, for instance, the urine contained a great quantity of slimy mucus, as it does in inflammation of the bladder or cystitis, one of the proper ways to treat it would be to drink a large quantity of hot water. This would be quickly absorbed into the blood, carried to the kidneys, percolated through them and transferred to the bladder. There it would contribute to the flushing of the bladder, together with the mucus it contains in the form of a copious supply of diluted urine.

Diseases of the bladder can therefore be logically treated with medicines, but notwithstanding this, these diseases are sometimes so obscure so often connected with kidney disease and so often distinguished with great difficulty from kidney disease that it is usually an unwise plan to invest in patent medicines for their treatment, about which you know nothing, the flushing of the bladder in the label around the bottle.

The bladder is often attacked by such diseases as stone, tuberculosis and cancer. Does anybody imagine there is any patent medicine which will cure either of these diseases and so prescribe for himself one of the patent medicines which promises to cure or relieve them?

Some of the diseases of the bladder are attacked by means of medicines injected into it through the urethra. Does any untrained person fancy he can do this or select the proper medicine for this purpose?

Equally futile is it as a rule to patronize the advertising quacks who profess to be able to cure these diseases but are usually unscrupulous and unskilled and are interested in performing upon those who apply to them for relief only so long as their money holds out.

If pain or discomfort in the bladder is not relieved by copious draughts of hot water or flax-seed tea, or other simple and harmless remedies, the sooner you can get intelligent assistance the better.

Ask Dr. Currier that medical question that has been puzzling you. Confine your letter to fifty words and send stamped, addressed envelope for reply. He cannot, of course, make individual diagnoses, and he reserves the right to decide as to the propriety of queries.

be to drink a large quantity of hot water. This would be quickly absorbed into the blood, carried to the kidneys, percolated through them and transferred to the bladder. There it would contribute to the flushing of the bladder, together with the mucus it contains in the form of a copious supply of diluted urine.

Diseases of the bladder can therefore be logically treated with medicines, but notwithstanding this, these diseases are sometimes so obscure so often connected with kidney disease and so often distinguished with great difficulty from kidney disease that it is usually an unwise plan to invest in patent medicines for their treatment, about which you know nothing, the flushing of the bladder in the label around the bottle.

The bladder is often attacked by such diseases as stone, tuberculosis and cancer. Does anybody imagine there is any patent medicine which will cure either of these diseases and so prescribe for himself one of the patent medicines which promises to cure or relieve them?

Some of the diseases of the bladder are attacked by means of medicines injected into it through the urethra. Does any untrained person fancy he can do this or select the proper medicine for this purpose?

Equally futile is it as a rule to patronize the advertising quacks who profess to be able to cure these diseases but are usually unscrupulous and unskilled and are interested in performing upon those who apply to them for relief only so long as their money holds out.

If pain or discomfort in the bladder is not relieved by copious draughts of hot water or flax-seed tea, or other simple and harmless remedies, the sooner you can get intelligent assistance the better.

Ask Dr. Currier that medical question that has been puzzling you. Confine your letter to fifty words and send stamped, addressed envelope for reply. He cannot, of course, make individual diagnoses, and he reserves the right to decide as to the propriety of queries.

The Theatre

By MAURICE HENLE

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—It takes all kinds of people to populate this somewhat knock-kneed world. And that probably accounts for an amusing group who have discovered a new way of getting a few crumbs that might fall from a movie star's table. This latest form of petty graft consists of naming children after stars. Of course, many fond mothers name their children after the stars in good faith. But this small group of which I speak has a method in its madness.

"We have named our baby after you," is about the way letters from these mothers read, "and as a sure thing that you will want to do something for him (or her)." Many of the mothers are content with asking the star thus honored to take the baby a part in pictures.

An amusing story is told of Adolphe Menjou. Nine years ago on the western front in France two American army captains sat in a dugout and listened to the rumble of gunpowder.

"If you get out of this first," said one to the other, "mail this letter for me."

"And if you get out first, mail this for me," said the other. Letters were exchanged.

Captain Adolphe Menjou (for he was one) and Captain Adolph Caruso, husband and manager of Josephine Lucchese, coloratura soprano, met recently in the Lasky studio in Hollywood.

"Menjou," finally said Caruso, a bit embarrassed, "there's something I must tell you. I forgot to mail your letter. Here it is."

"It's all right, Caruso," the movie star replied, "I forgot to mail yours too. Wait a minute and I'll get it for you."

Every effort is made to get real

When it reached the Battery, at the very tip of Manhattan, stevedores and hangers-on poured from nearby restaurants and other establishments. They crowded around.

"Who is it," someone called the conductor. And, kiddingly, he replied, "Knockout Riley." "Who's he?" was the comeback, "who'd he ever lick?" "Jack Renault," continued the practical joking conductor, for in the course of the story of the picture, Renault was killed, a part being played by the prominent heavyweight, Renault.

And through her talk of life, and things, The beauty of her spirit sings. And when her letter-writing's done, There will be somehow loss of sun

COURT SUSTAINS TWO CONVICTIONS

Convictions of Jennie Hickman, colored, E. Third St., and M. J. Dugan, proprietor of a billiard parlor and soft drink establishment, N. Whiteman St., for unlawful possession of liquor, were sustained by Common Pleas Court Tuesday.

The decisions will be appealed. It is announced. Both Dugan and Mrs. Hickman were convicted by Mayor John W.

Phugh. Police alleged liquor discovered on property adjoining that of Mrs. Hickman was owned by her. She denied this.

Dugan's arrest and subsequent conviction was the outgrowth of a raid on his place of business in which a quantity of liquor was found cached in the attic. Dugan, in his defense, contended the booze was the property of another man, now dead.

ANTIOCH DOWNED BY DAYTON FLYERS IN DAYTON ON TUESDAY

Exhibiting unexpected strength, the University of Dayton Flyers downed Antioch College's Division B basketball team by the wide margin of 53 to 11 in a basketball game at the Flyers' gym Tuesday night.

The game furnished one of the outstanding upsets of the season as the Flyers were thought to be notoriously weak in all departments. Instead the team played exceptionally well both on offense and defense and displayed an accurate eye for the basket.

Sharpened with fourteen points, was the high-point man of the game with Teegarden playing well for Antioch.

Dayton rolled up fifteen points at the offset before the visiting quintet could break into the scoring column. The half ended, Dayton leading 23 to 5.

Antioch played as if in a trance after winning two straight games and eared but three field goals during the contest. These were made by Teegarden, Seaman and Moore.

Lineups:

Dayton (53): Snelling (41), Teegarden (23), Debesis (11), Sprague (10), Sharpened (10), Kenah (10), Dehler (10), Hiller (10), Seaman (10), Field goals—Sharpened 7, Debesis 4, Hipa 4, Carolan 3, Snelling 2, Crush 1, Costello 1, Finn 1, Wilcox 1, Teegarden 1, Seaman 1, Moore 1, Foul goals—Costello 2, Carolan 1, Hipa 1, Debesis 1, Teegarden 1, Sprague 1, McLean 1, Toomire 1, Moore 1, Substitutions: Dayton—Carolan for Snelling; Crush for Debesis; Costello for Carolan; Finn for Crush; Kendall for Hipa; Wilcox for Dehler; Murphy for Sharpened; Antioch—McLean for Teegarden; Fife for Hiller; Cheney for Sprague; Toomire for Moore; Moore for Fife; Toomire for Kenah. Referee—Harvey Schwab.

BRADY VETERANS IN COURT TILT FRIDAY

Old-time basketball enthusiasts who frequented the courts ten years or more ago will remember the Bradys, an independent court aggregation that flourished in Xenia for a number of years.

After many years, start of yesterday that composed this famous team will once more don basketball togs and play again.

The Bradys will meet the newly organized Limehouse Five in a game, preliminary to the Central-Easton contest at the high school gym Friday night at 7 o'clock.

The team will be composed of Fred "Dutch" Shultz, Oliver Belden, William Praver, Lawrence Whittington, Thomas McClellan and William Shadrach. All these names are familiar to Xenia fans.

Over ten years ago as each player was once a star on the high school court teams of former years.

The Bradys have been practicing this week in an effort to acquire a measure of their old skill and are confident of victory.

The Limehouse Five has played but one game so far this season.

This resulted in a close victory over the high school senior class team 19 to 16.

BOWLING

Criteria made a clean sweep of their three-game series with the Candy Kits in a Xenia Bowling League match Tuesday night. Each team rolled with but four men.

Earl Gannon rolled the best total for the evening, putting together games of 184, 246 and 181 for a 611 series. Box score:

Candy Kits..... 179 214 180

Whittington..... 175 144 132

Hisey..... 157 145 130

Pesavento..... 166 188 190

OLD RIVALS MEET OFF COURTS

When Suzanne Lenglen and Helen Wills met in San Francisco there wasn't a racket. Helen just paid a courtesy call on the Frenchwoman who defeated her last February. Lenglen is playing professional exhibition games on the coast. There appears to be no chance of another meeting of the pair on the courts.

CLOTHIERS DEAL IS INVOLVED IN SUIT MINOR BRINGS SUIT

Suit for $534.25, alleged balance due for merchandise purchased, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Max J. Cohan, Jacob Roth and Sidney Stiffson, doing business as Cohan, Roth and Stiffson, against F. E. Tilton, doing business as "Tilton's." Miller and Finney are plaintiffs' attorneys.

WANTS CONTRACT DISSOLVED Asking that a contract be dissolved and for the return of $145 paid on an agreement, Austin Gill, an infant by his next friend F. W. Dunkle, has brought suit in Common Pleas Court against E. A. Oster. Plaintiff claims he purchased a Ford coupe from Oster in June, 1925 and at a time when he had already paid $145 on the purchase money, defendant recovered possession of the car in September, 1926. Attorney F. W. Dunkle represents the plaintiff.

NOTE SUIT FILED Suit for $150 alleged due on a promissory note, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by The American Loan and Realty Co., against John Koogler and Effie E. Koogler. George H. Smith is attorney for the plaintiff.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The freshman class held its first class election on Monday, January 31. In former years the frosh have not been permitted to elect class officers but in the last few years they have been granted this privilege at the beginning of the second semester.

Those chosen to lead the class through the remainder of the year were: president, John Collins; vice president, Frances Hamlin; secretary, Jeanne Marshall; treasurer, Minor Monroe; class advisor, Miss Allen.

Mr. Whitworth is serving as faculty advisor in place of Miss Allen, who is out of school due to injuries received in an accident.

The "Cen Sen" staff reports more favorable progress. Almost all of the engravings of the various classes, clubs, etc. has been made and the class of '27 enters high hopes of getting the edition out by the middle of April.

The proceeds from the two sandwich sales already held in support of the annual have amounted to $20.16. Another of these sales is to be held on Thursday of this week.

Due to injuries sustained in an automobile accident Miss Olive Allen, English teacher, is out of school. Her place is being filled by Miss Ada Michener. Miss Michener attained her A. B. degree at Mt. Holyoke and her A. M. at Ohio State University.

Mrs. Dean, junior high mathematics teacher, is under quarantine at her home on account of scarlet fever. Mrs. Paul Orr is substituting for Mrs. Dean.

At the beginning of the present basketball season more than 255 student tickets were sold. Students were given until February 1 to pay for these tickets. This plan has met with success and the ticket committee is glad to announce that at the present time only twenty-five tickets remain unpaid.

The junior high school is having a party on Friday, February 11 at 7:30 p. m. The evening will be spent in various games and sports in the gym followed by a refreshment course in the cafeteria. The faculty committee in charge is: Miss Harper, Mrs. Dean, Miss Cavanaugh, Miss Martin, Mr. Patterson and Mr. House.

AMERICAN FUTURE LIES WITH YOUNGER PEOPLE, CLUB TOLD

Taking for a foundation his experiences as an immigrant to this country, the Rev. Emil Baumann, pastor of Forest Ave. Presbyterian Church, Dayton, discussed the past and future development of America, in his address before Xenia Kiwanis Club at the Elks' Club, Tuesday evening.

"Where Are We Going and What Are We Taking With Us?" He related interesting incidents in his Americanization from a Swiss immigrant and stressed the possibilities of America as lying with the young people of the country. He declared that these possibilities were fully appreciated by foreigners coming to these shores.

As a sidelight on his talk, the Rev. Mr. Baumann took dogs of the various nations and gave their characteristics as typifying the different nationalities.

The talk was voted one of the most interesting on the Kiwanis program. M. L. Wolf was presented an attendance prize by fellow club members. Kiwanis found semi-comic valentines at their places when seated for dinner.

THE INCOME TAX INSIDE OUT

This is the second of a series of articles by an expert simplifying income tax regulations and making it easy for readers of The Gazette and Republican to fill out returns. Problems of various classes of persons are discussed in separate installments, so that the answers to your questions are not supplied today, look for them in succeeding issues of this paper.

By FRED R. RIPLEY

A partnership is not a "tax-paper" within the meaning of the income tax law and, although it is required to file returns of form 1065, the returns are for the purpose of information only.

The tax on the partnership income is paid by the individual partners who must include in their return their proportionate share of the income, WHETHER DISTRIBUTED OR NOT.

A partner is also entitled to claim as a deduction in computing his net income his proportionate share of a net loss sustained by the partnership.

The net income of a partnership is computed in the same manner and on the same basis as that of an individual except that no deduction is allowed for charitable contributions, the proportionate share of which must be claimed by the partners on their individual returns.

Fiduciaries are required to file returns for individuals for whom they act under the same circumstances as the individuals themselves would be required to make returns. A fiduciary also must make a return for an estate of trust, the net income of which is $1,500 or over or the gross income of which is $5,000 or over regardless of the amount of the net income.

Returns are also required to be filed for every estate or trust of which any beneficiary is a non-resident alien. In general, the provisions of the law applicable to the individual also are applicable to fiduciaries. The term "fiduciary" means a guardian, trustee, executor, administrator, receiver, conservator, or any person acting in any fiduciary capacity for another person.

A fiduciary is also required to make a return for a decedent from the beginning of the year to the date of death of the decedent if the income for the period equals the amount regarding individual returns.

Every corporation, except those expressly exempt, must make a return on form 1120 regardless of the amount of the net income. The return must be sworn to by the president, vice president, or other principal officer and by the treasurer or assistant treasurer.

Returns for foreign corporations having an agent in the United States, but no office or place of business therein, are to be made by such agent.

Receivers, trustees in bankruptcy, or assignees operating the property or business of a corporation are required to make returns for the corporation.

No return can cover a period of more than twelve months, but one may be required for a shorter period, as, for example, where the accounting period is changed. The requirements with respect to the filing of a separate return and the payment of tax for a part of a year are the same as for the filing of a return and the payment of tax for a full taxable year closing at the same time.

In the case of voluntary change in the accounting period, by a corporation or an individual, the net income computed on the return must be placed on an annual basis—that is, it must be multiplied by twelve and divided by the number of months covered by the return.

Tomorrow: Personal Exemptions.

YELLOW SPRINGS

Mr. Henry J. Arnold, director of extension work, Wittenberg College, Springfield, addressed the members of the Parent-Teachers Association and friends Friday evening in the High School building, taking for his subject "The Challenge of Flaming Youth."

Special services will begin Sunday morning in the Methodist Church and continue throughout the week. Dr. R. W. Stanton of Franklin, O., will assist the pastor in these services. Dr. Stanton is not a stranger to the members of this church as he preached here several times while he was pastor of First Methodist Church in Xenia. Come and hear Dr. Stanton.

Mrs. Cora Kentig attended the funeral services of Mrs. Elizabeth Stutsman Haverstick, Wednesday at Zimmerman. Mrs. Haverstick was the daughter of Jacob Stutsman formerly of Yellow Springs.

RETAIL LUMBERING COURSE AT ANTIOCH TO OPEN FEBRUARY 7

Antioch College's second year of courses in retail lumbering will open February 7, continuing until March 5, it is announced by T. F. Laist, head of the department of research in lumber retailing, which has been endorsed by Ohio Association of Retail Lumber Dealers.

Admission to the two short courses requires at least a grammar school education. Practical experience in retail lumber is valuable but not necessary.

During the first two weeks of the course, the students consider the general problems of lumber, practice and theory. During the second two weeks, all students who remain will be given individual instruction in the subjects included in the subjects two weeks curriculum.

Among the subjects to be taken up in this unique course are: Materials—a thorough and practical course will be given in lumber and its utilization from the standpoint of the retail dealer in materials handled by the lumber and supply dealer. In the study of lumber, no stress will be placed on forestry and the minute structure of wood, but sufficient time will be spent on the subject to give the student a clear understanding of the properties of wood, its strength and its growth. Also, defects, methods of grading, lumber, number standards, methods of handling and storing lumber, Commercial species and their adaptation to special uses will be under study and discussion. Other materials than wood used in building will be studied, as this is said to come within the field of most lumber and general supply dealers. Blue print reading, estimating, industrial relations, labor problems, structural engineering, problems in drafting, chemistry, mathematics, business administration, biology, and accounting will be given in their relation to the retail field of lumber in as great detail as possible during the short course. Plants will be visited and outside speakers, other than members of the department, will attend and give lectures in their special fields.

MRS. CATHERINE HIGGINS SUDDENLY CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Catherine Higgins, 75, widow of Thomas Higgins, died suddenly at her home, 16 Home Ave., Tuesday night at about 7 o'clock. Coroner F. M. Chambliss, in a verdict Wednesday, expressed an opinion that the cause of death was the probable cause of death.

Death is believed to have taken place at least an hour before the body was found lying on the porch by her son, Harry, who lives in an adjoining house. When she failed to answer the telephone, Mr. Higgins investigated. Dr. C. G. McPherson was immediately summoned but death had taken place.

Her sudden death came as a shock to members of the family for she was apparently enjoying the best of health. Four weeks ago she suffered a slight attack of indigestion but it improved rapidly and there was nothing to give relatives cause for anxiety.

It is the theory that when the hemorrhage occurred, Mrs. Higgins stepped out on the porch thinking the fresh air would bring relief and suddenly collapsed, losing consciousness.

Mrs. Higgins was born in Queens County, Ireland, July 15, 1851 and at the age of nine came to this country with her parents. She made her home at Spring Valley until after her marriage to Thomas Higgins fifty years ago last November. Her husband passed away March 16, 1918. Her maiden name was Catherine Cranney.

She was an only child. Surviving are the following children: Mrs. C. B. Mowrer, W. Main St.; Mrs. E. C. Ashbaugh, Columbus, O.; Mrs. C. E. Snyder, Dayton, O.; Harry A. Higgins, Home Ave., and Raymond A. Higgins, managing editor of The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican.

Funeral services will be held Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock at St. Brigid's Church.

Embarrassing Position Experienced By Bronx Lady

Miss Jeanne Ginsberg, Bronx, N. Y., writes: "I had become accustomed to arising each day with a heavy head, dizzy and bad taste in my mouth. My bowels were frequently clogged and constipated. One day I became so sick to my stomach I had to leave an important job and go home. A friend advised me to take CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. I feel greatly relieved since using them and whenever my stomach and head goes bad again I'll certainly know what to do."
